REVIEWING BODIES FOR DEVELOPMENT APPLICATIONS & TIMELINE

The City’s Ordinance Code outlines the procedures for development applications. Depending on the nature and location of the project, select City boards and commissions will review the project. These groups are advisory boards to the City Council and provide recommendations to the City Council. Check out our website for a complete list of boards and commissions and more information about these entities. The relevant project development boards and commissions are described below and meet at City Hall unless noted otherwise.

The timeline for the approval process of a development application depends on the schedule of each board and commission that needs to review the project, the public notice requirements in each case, and the publication time for media release. Be sure to discuss related timelines with your City Staff early in the development stages, as timelines may vary depending on the specifics of each project.

ATTENTION BUSINESS OWNERS AND DEVELOPERS:

We encourage you to contact City staff members early in the project development stages to ensure the most efficient use of your time and to discuss permit and approval requirements as they relate to each individual project.

DEFINITIONS:

1. What is a Petition?
   A petition is a request to do something, most commonly addressed to a government official or public entity.

2. What is an Easement?
   A right to cross or otherwise use someone else’s land for a specified purpose. When someone is granted an easement, he or she is granted the legal right to use the property but the legal title to the land remains with the owner. Easements are generally recorded with the Assessor’s Office. For Example: the utility company has an easement through your land for the purpose of maintaining the utility.

3. What is a Variance?
   A form of equitable relief allowing the applicant to use his land in an efficient way by bypassing the local zoning laws. Essentially you are asking permission to do something which violates the local Zoning Ordinance. There are two types of Variances: a. Area (Non-Use) – offers an exception to the property owner encountering difficulties complying with physical requirements issues. For Example: adding a second floor. b. Use – allows property owner to use this property in a way that deviates from local zoning standards. For Example: a use variance might allow a dentist to place his or her practice in a residential area.

4. What is Vacating?
   Petition to determine whether or not to vacate part of an existing utility, easement or public right of way. The general process for Vacating requests is as follows: The petitioner writes a vacating request letter addressed to City Council and submitted to the City Clerk’s office along with vacating fee. Vacating requests are first reviewed by the Engineering Division and the Law Department. The Engineering Division will forward a recommendation to City Council for action. Council may or may not refer request to Planning Department for action. If it does go to Planning, a Public Hearing date will be scheduled. For more information please contact our Engineering Division. For Example: a petitioner submitted a letter to City Council to vacate the existing sanitary sewer, storm water and water main easements on the property.
The Inspection/Building and Enforcement Department provides information, examines and approves plans, questions on signage, issues permits and conducts follow-up inspections for all new construction as well as additions/alterations to both residential and commercial buildings. It also issues the Certificate of Occupancy for new construction & new businesses.

Permits are issued during normal business hours, 8:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m., Monday – Friday. Fees vary, depending on the type of permit required. Please refer to the list of Inspection/Building and Enforcement Department Application Forms below for specific permit fee requirements. If you are not sure where your project falls, in relation to required permits, please contact the Inspection Department for guidance.
